

I've been obsessed with Archive.org lately. A HUGE online library that's collecting pictures, books, magazines, software. Backing it up online, making it available to everybody. Very cool. I've collected a bunch of interesting things over the years to upload.

Anybody want a Sexyfur WinAMP skin?

They're looking for old software, source code, and all the random interesting things people did with them.

They also create torrent downloads for everything. The whole point is to make it so nothing can be lost.

Oh hey! I just realized I still have an old backup of the now-dead SuperMegaTopia website from back in 2004. Apparently I had downloaded the entire website at one point. That used to be a thing you could do.
